People in Motion

This is the idea, the idea that will one day be a memory, which we seek to preserve in the 1968 GROWL. Quitman High School is people, and it is what these people do that makes high school life the exciting time it is. From the self-proclaimed, almighty seniors to the bewildered freshmen, everyone has a part to play in the life of Q.H.S.

As you turn the pages of this book, remember the work and the play, the successes and the failures, the smiles and tears, and remember the

People in Motion.

Mood of Student Life Varies

Contrast the intent faces of government class with those of the football team during the homecoming parade.

At bottom, Senior James Russell surveys his domain—the QHS campus.

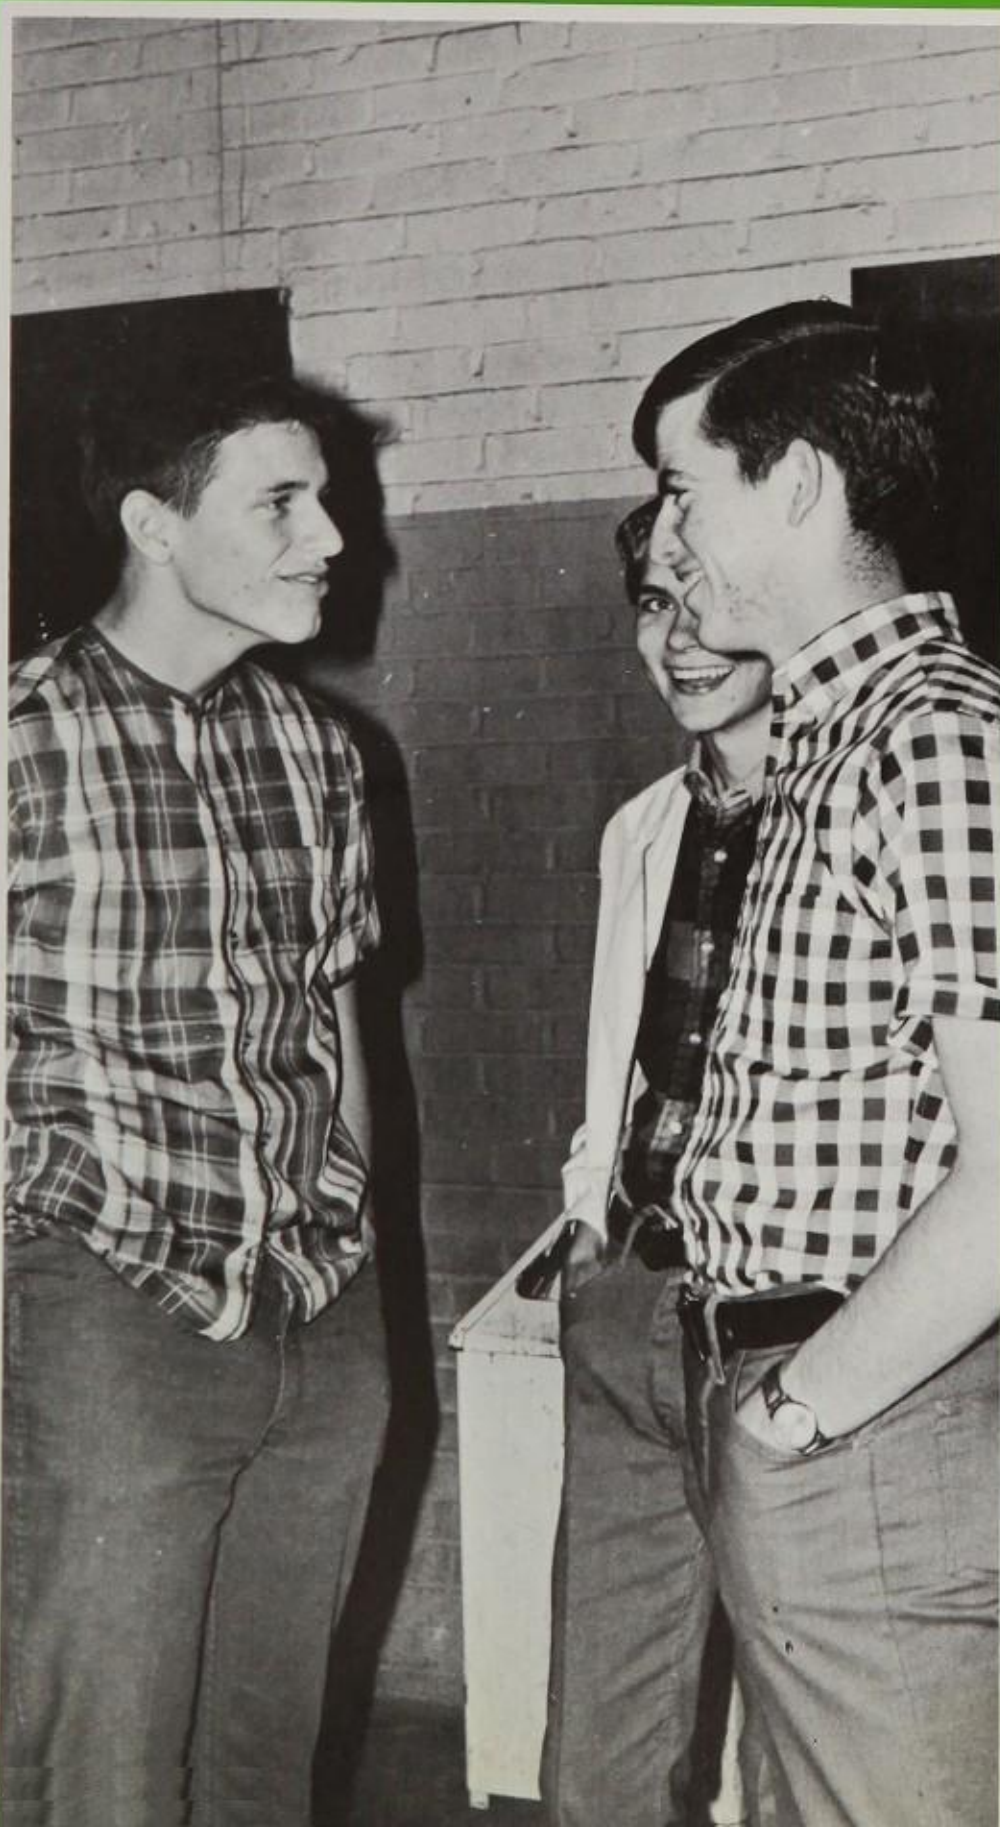

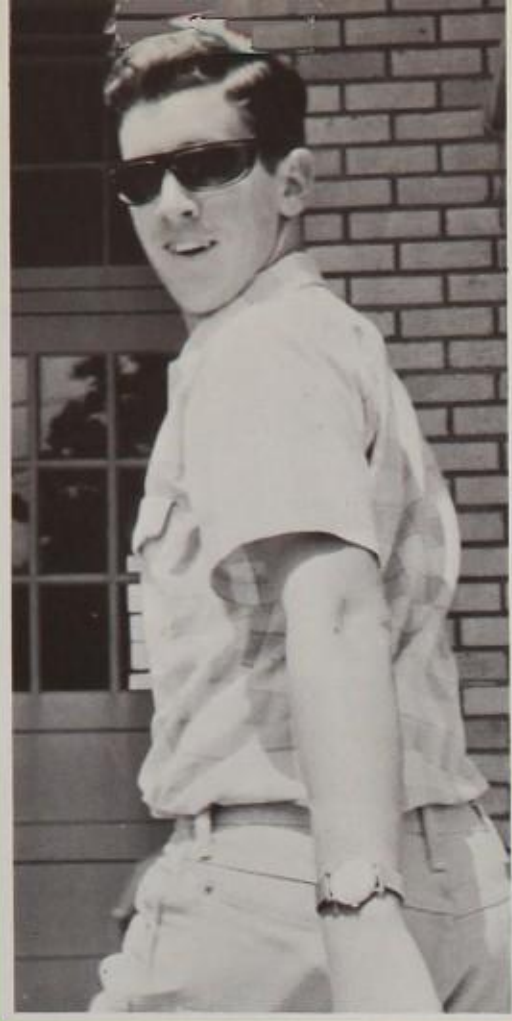

The Social Side

School is much more than factoring binomials, dissecting frogs, and trying to understand Chaucer. The people on this page seem to be more interested in other people. And who can blame them?

From Head to Toe

Notice on this page some indications of the trend in styles during 1967-68. This was the year of the controversy over short skirts. (Remember the day they measured?) At right, the boots belong to Monty Manley. The two "hair models" are Kathy Holley and Charla Ivins.

Administration

This section includes the elected School Board which sets school policy, the officials who administer that policy, and the faculty which acts as a funnel through which knowledge is poured.

Black Completes Ninth Year as Principal

Students find him firm, yet likeable, interested in them as students and as individuals. A frequent visitor in classes, he seems to enjoy taking part in all student activities.

In a characteristic mood, Mr. Black jokes with Sam Spacek.

Competent Staff

Several changes can be observed on the academic side at Quitman. Besides the addition of a counseling program, the past few years have seen increased emphasis on audio-visual materials, an enlarged physical education program, and the acquisition of multiple-listening stations in

Faculty Participates in School Activities

Coach Robert Richards was the only new member on the high school faculty this year. As usual, the student's best friend was the teacher, except on test days and perhaps a few other times.

National Honor Society

The N.H.S. strives to promote leadership, character, service, and scholarship through various activities and projects. This year the N.H.S. recognized a Student of the Month on the basis of outstanding effort. Other projects were a tutoring service, a Christmas welfare collection, and a girls track meet. Eleven seniors and juniors were initiated after the first six weeks.

Q.H.S. Cheerleaders

QHS Cheerleaders

As Head Cheerleader, Eva Robinson directed the Bulldog Spirit at athletic contests. Serving as Senior Cheerleaders were Charla Ivins and Jolyn Robinson while Sophomores Nancy Harris and Debbie Willis completed the group.

Pep Rallies Boost Bulldog Spirit

During football season, a new twist was added when pep rallies were held at halftime of Junior High Games played in Quitman.

The Many Sides of a Pep Rally

Above Eva Robinson jumps as Bulldogs rooters yell, but even cheerleaders tire—see Charla below. The majorettes prance through a routine as the football players take it all in.

The Community, as Well as the School, Takes Pride in the Band

Though the Quitman Band was smaller than usual in 1967-68, it still produced a fine sound. Countless hours of hard work were spent in preparing for our football games, pep rallies, concerts, and contests.

Many members of the band have received first division ratings from the Interscholastic League in solo and ensemble contests and in Twirling contests.

One quality that is definitely present in the heart of the Bulldog band is the desire to win; whether the victory is the band, the team, or the student body, the band will be behind them all the way.

Donny, Max, and Oliver clown to break the tension before marching contest.

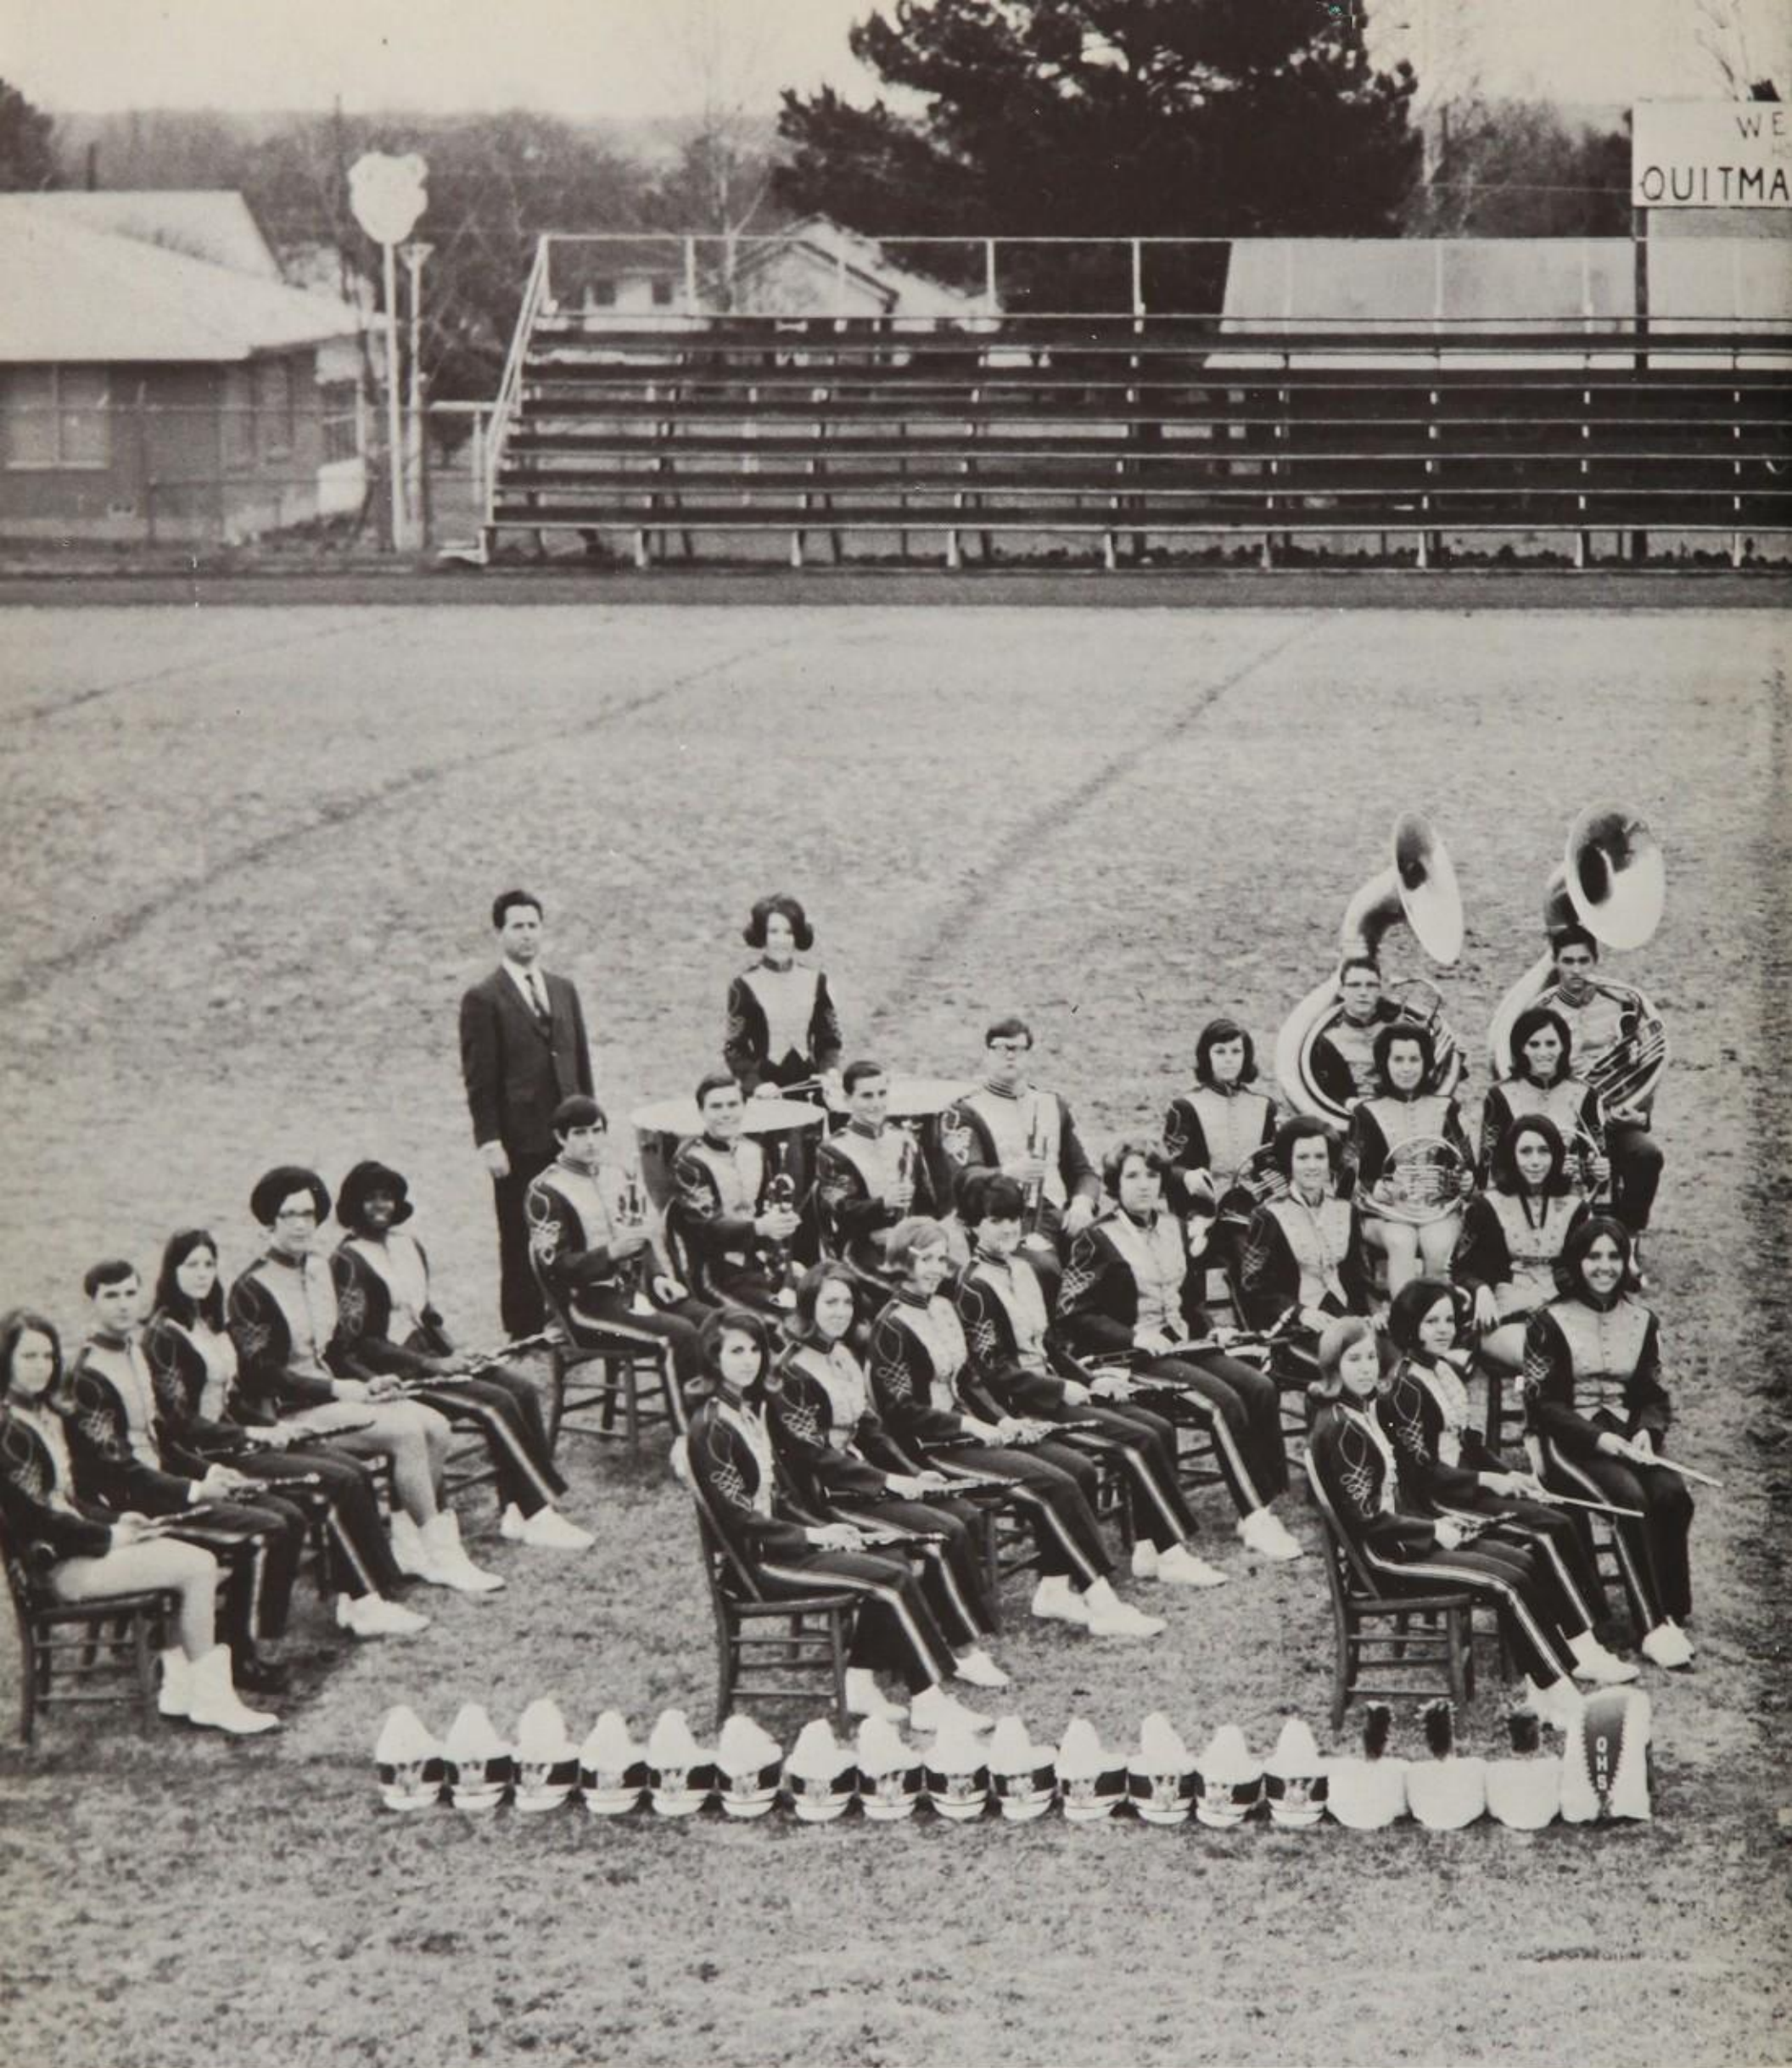

While keeping an eye on the football action, Mr. Higgins leads the band on a cold night.

Long hours of foggy practice on a rain-soaked field is the price the Bulldog band pays for its fine reputation.

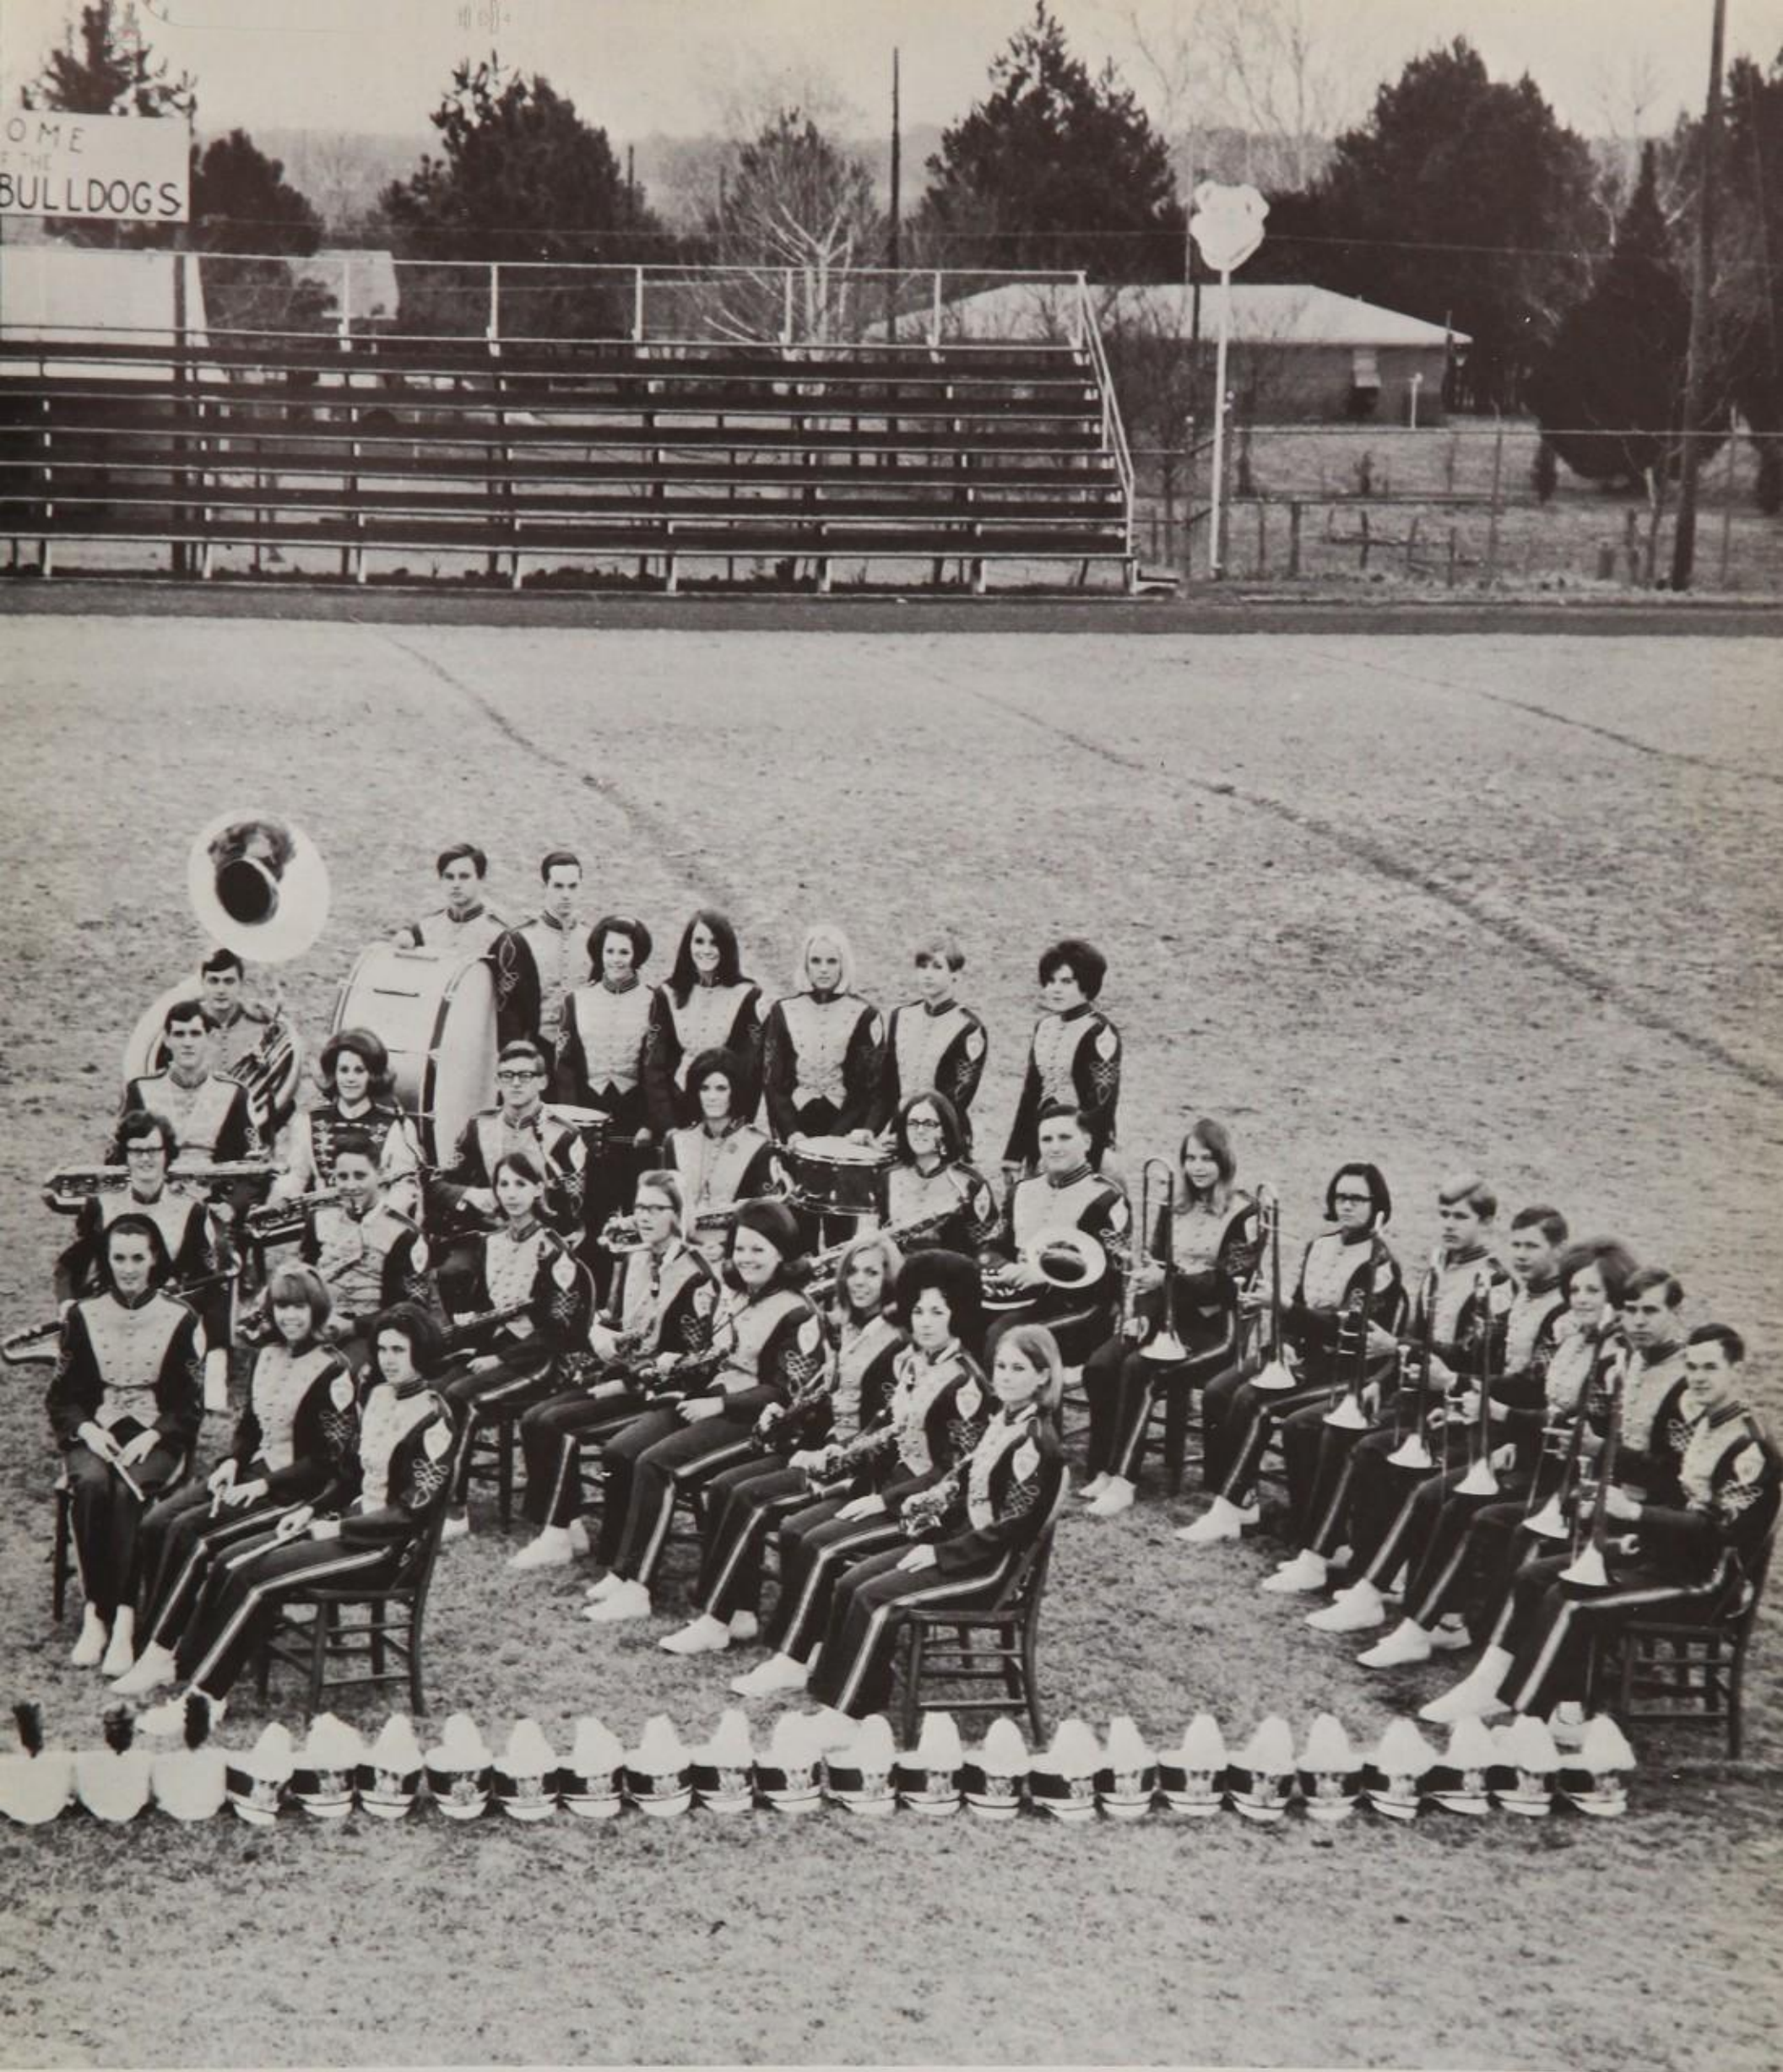

The "true" Higgy marches at Homecoming.

We Gather Together . . .

Judge Looney Lindsey and W. W. Ashworth from the American Legion post of Mineola brought a patriotic message to the student body on Veteran's Day. Folksinger Frank Schildt entertained with a vast repertoire of songs on a December Southern Assembly program.

These members of the Spanish club performed in their "adopted tongue", at the annual Christmas program.

Assemblies are fondly remembered, primarily because they got us out of classes. Although there were only two Southern Assembly programs, assemblies were fairly numerous. The band, represented on this page by the stage band at a banquet honoring State Rep. George Hinson, started a new tradition by playing the school song and the national anthem in an opening ceremony.

Athletics

Six different sports at Q.H.S. help round out the individual and stimulate the school spirit of the group.

Football — A Demanding Sport

On paper, the 1967 Bulldog season was not a success; we won only 3 games. Still, a review of the record shows that only two games were one-sided, and in the match with arch-rival Mineola, the Bulldogs, a fairly small team, showed plenty of fight. In the eyes of Quitman fans, time just ran out in five games. The Bulldogs sometimes played brilliantly, they sometimes made mistakes, but no one ever accused them of quitting.

Senior linebacker Lynn Shackelford does not appear on the following pages, Jim Morgan, Sam Spacek, and Phillip Ware, who moved up from the B-Team, also saw varsity action. Bill Morgan and Monty Yocum played early in the year.

Bulldogs Suffer Narrow Defeats; Maintain Spirit

The injury bug bit a spirited young Bulldog team this year as co-captain Danny Dobbs, Monty Manley, and Doug Raley required knee operations before the season ended.

Several players gained individual recognition on a squad characterized by teamwork. Offensive end Charles Swann was everyone's choice as All-East Texas as well as All-District. Alvin Kelly made the All-District 2nd team at defensive halfback. The following earned Honorable Mention recognition: Cain (Def. HB), Pearce (QB), Blalock (Off. Guard and Def. End), Gatewood (Off. Guard), D. Raley (center), Manley (Off. HB), and Kelly (Off. HB).

Bulldog Cagers Take Second in District

In their second season in District 16AA, the Bulldogs finished second only to Brownsboro, the defending Class A State Champion.

Coach Ballard's team led the district until the halfway point and won second place in the Mineola Tournament and consolation at Van and Paris.

Gatewood ponders the question of whether or not to shoot.

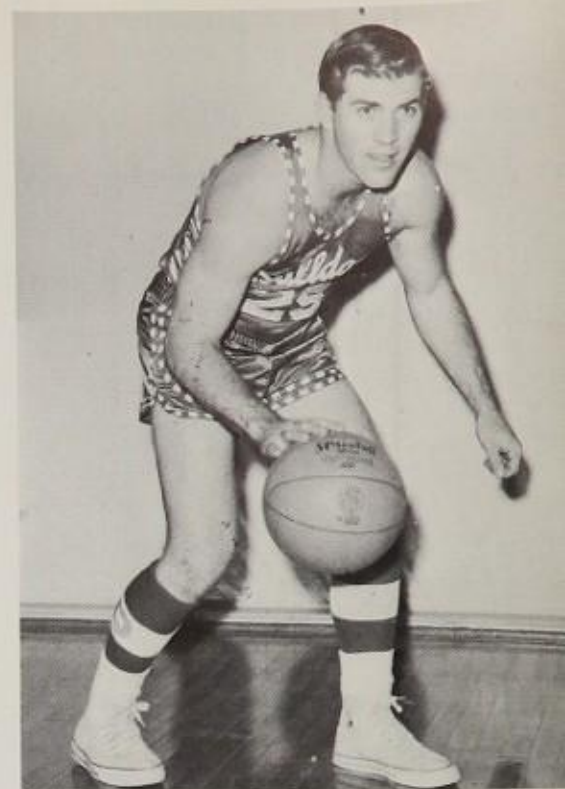

Coach Ballard hurriedly instructs his cagers about which tactics to use against Brownsboro.

Exciting Games Become Common

Whether they were winning or losing, the Roundballers of 1967-68 pleased the crowds. They were known as one of the most exciting teams of recent years playing their best at pressure-packed moments. Fourteen games were decided by six points or less.

Pearce, Parker, and Gatewood led the team in scoring while Parker and Pittman gathered in the most rebounds. Parker topped the team in field goal percentage with 59.3%. Cain was generally regarded as an outstanding defensive player.

Junior High

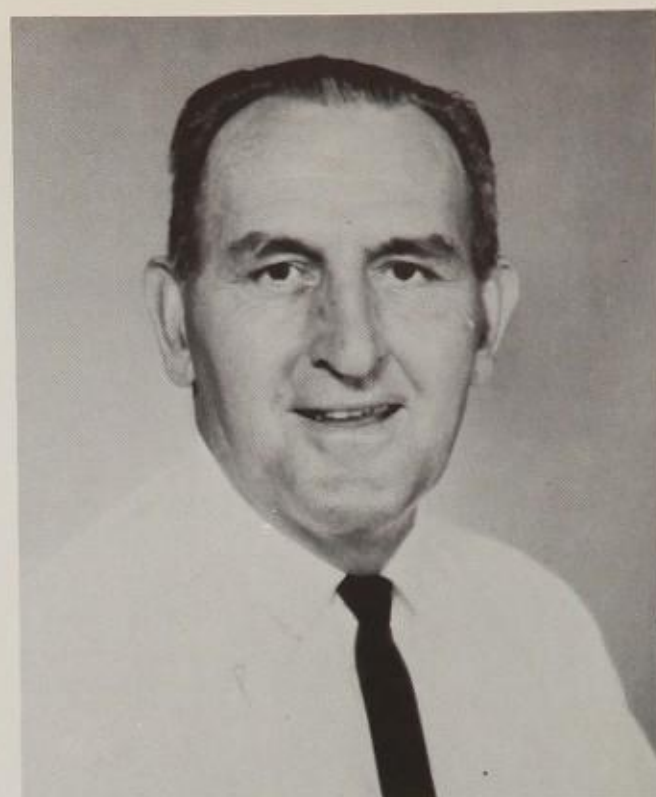

Junior High is a transition period in which students form habits that may follow them through high school.

Junior High Faculty

Junior High is the transition period between elementary and high school — a time of change. In addition to more difficult courses, junior high students are introduced to the world of extra-curricular activities.

To meet the needs of these students, the faculty has expanded to six members and the library has been combined with the high school library.

Elementary Changes With the Times

Elementary School is also People in Motion — and new ideas in practice. The last few years have seen an improved library, increased use of visual aids, and the institution of the “new math” program. Some students now receive training in remedial reading classes, and a Special Education class has been organized.

The Scene of Many Memories

One thinks back on his days in elementary schools with a mind rich in memories of young friends, interested teachers, and new experiences. Yet the first six grades are much more than pleasant thoughts of the past; they are the foundation upon which our education is built.

Two Annual Staffers Attend Summer Workshop

Editor Hill Goldsmith checks the dummy to determine which pages have been sent to the publisher. Pam Cain, Assistant Editor, talks things over with the sponsor Mrs. Duke.

Pam Cain and Hill Goldsmith, along with Eva Robinson of the paper staff and Mrs. Duke, attended a week-long journalism workshop at Texas A&M. Pam studied annual design and layout, while Hill won Outstanding Beginning Photographer award.

As the deadline approaches, the entire staff turns the library into a beehive of activity.

GROWL

These are the students who take pictures, draw the layouts, write copy, crop pictures, and worry about dead-lines.

STAFF

1968 was a year of change for the Growl. The Staff followed modern trends in yearbook design, and they selected a hard cover and a new type of paper.

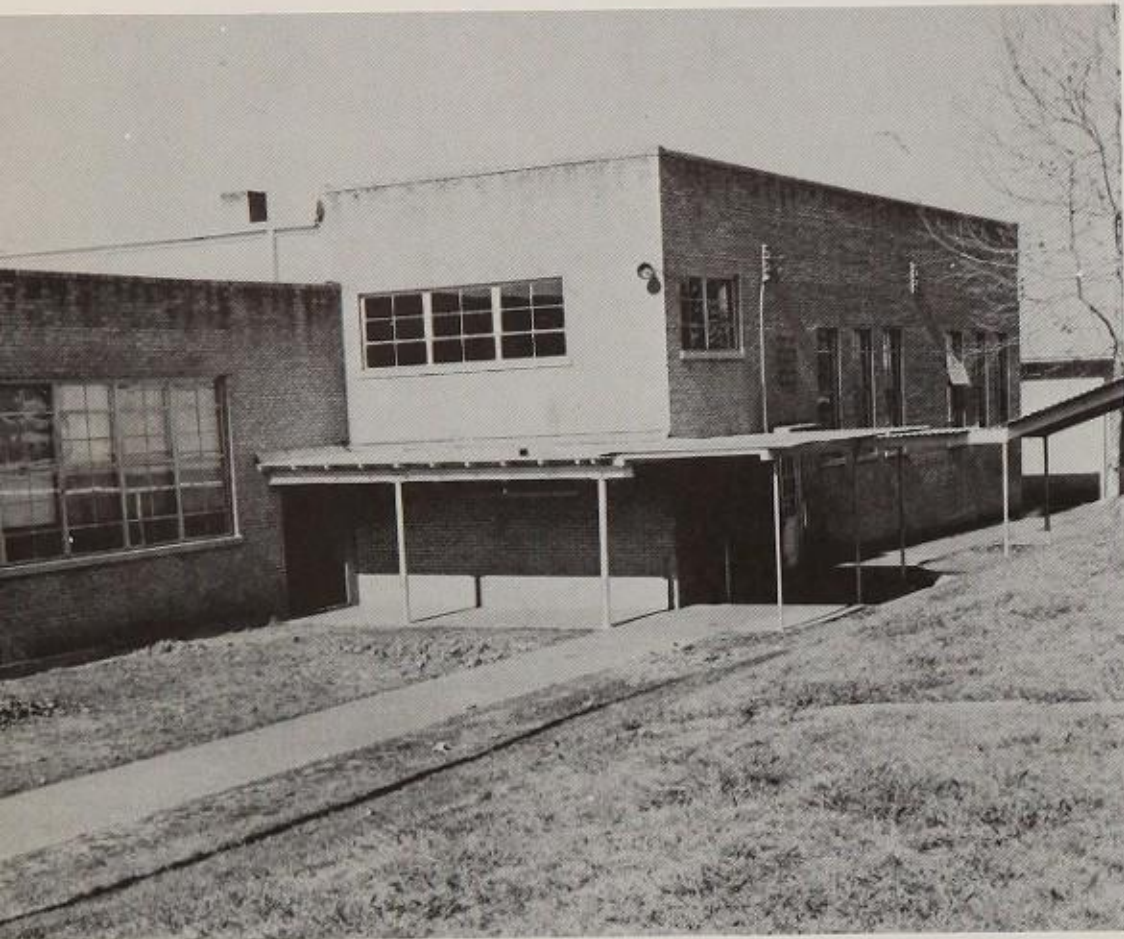

RICKY FRENCH

Credit goes to Gene Bright of Fine Arts Studio for the school photos, large group pictures, and darkroom work.

Kyle Milner took the varsity football shots, and several other students took various pictures. Thanks are owed to our T.P.C. representative, Ed McMeans, and, of course, our sponsor, Mrs. Duke.

1968 Marks Twenty-second and Last Year for High School Building

The Old

School Song

Our Alma Mater now to thee,
We lift our song of praise,
We love thy walls,
We love thy halls,
And all thy pleasant ways.

We love thy wisdom and thy strength,
Thy truth which makes men free.
Through smiles and tears of future years,
Dear QUITMAN our praise to thee.

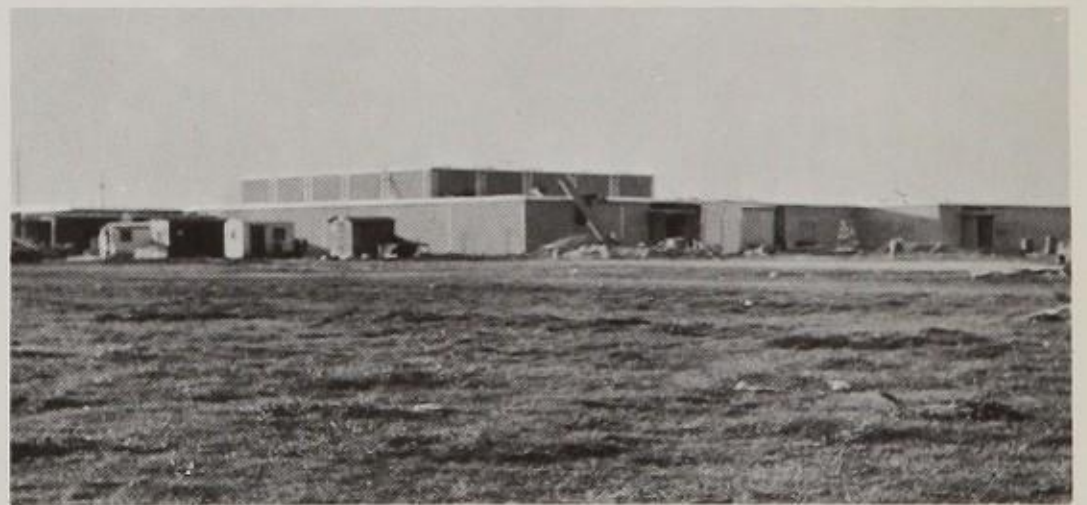

A Dream Becomes Reality as New School is Built

The New

The Quitman Junior-Senior High School, to be ready for occupancy by September of 1968 will be a million dollar plant which will be worth many millions to those who use it.
